Peak Shaving Pros

Western SC AIChE would like to thank Dave Stubblefield, ESL Program Manager, and Jeff Hinson, PE, Director of Utilities Services for reacting quickly to the poor weather the night of our tour and putting together an interesting and informative presentation on Clemson's Utilities.

Jeff covered the Strategic Energy Plan, saving money by producing energy and managing utility demand with the Energy Management System; Renovation of Clemson Utilities, highlighted by the Capstone Micro Turbine - cogeneration in a refrigerator sized package; and Education/Research Opportunities. Thanks also to Jody Burgess for shuttling us through the storm, and presenting his research on properties of flexible insulation.

Jeff gave a valuable piece of advice to all the students present: in your career it is important to understand dollars more than BTUs (does this apply to mass transfer coefficients too?).

Meeting Notice!

Make note, our meeting is a week earlier than usual to clear the way for turkey day.

The lack of ethics in the business world is big news these days. But, what about ethics for engineers? This class was prepared in response to some states requiring Continuing Education credits in Engineering Ethics. This class meets those requirements. Mr. Donovan Norris is a Principal Engineer at Fluor and is licensed in 16 states and territories.
