Welcome From The President:

On behalf of the executive committee, I extend a warm welcome to all members as we commence a new year of activities with Western South Carolina AIChE. We have spent this summer planning a varied program for the upcoming year. It carries forward last year's initiatives with a blend of technical, general interest, community education and social activities. We invite you to create an hour or two a month in your busy schedules to enjoy conversations and meeting presentations alongside others who share your insight into the fabric of the universe.

September Meeting Notice:

The September meeting kicks off a slate of topics that directly impact our professional lives. We will evaluate career progress and the best way to evaluate employment opportunities presented by the marketplace.

Successful Job Transition from Technology to Management

September's program gives us access to some sage advice regarding career issues such as: the keys to transitioning to a role outside your current expertise; different career paths to reach the same goal; consider changing companies, but observe some cautions before you leap; and attributes employers look for in potential high performers.

John Spray has 30 years engineering experience ranging from construction supervision and project management, engineering design, engineering management and project management for both engineering and operating companies. He is presently a Director of Operations in Fluor Global Services, Operations and Maintenance Group.

Greenville Science Fair

This year our Section will once again support the Greenville County and South Carolina Regional Science and Engineering Fair with cash prizes and exhibit judges. Held in March at the Palmetto Exposition Center, Middle School and High School students contend in this event. It is sponsored by Roper Mountain Science Center and the Greenville Downtown Rotary Club. Senior Division winners go on to exhibit at the International Fair in May.

Clemson Scholarship

This year our Section will also again support the Chemical Engineering program at Clemson University by offering a $1,000 scholarship to a junior year student. Details and applications will be available at the October joint meeting.
